Decolonial thinking expresses a series of thoughts that question inequalities and socio-spatial conflicts, in order to transform them. It adopts a relational perspective, focused on exchange processes between 'differences', this is to say, between different cultures, subjects, practices and knowledges allowing a pluriverse to emerge. Reflections produced in the conferences allow a cross between urbanistic, decolonial, feminist and queer and anti-racist knowledges problematizing colonial knowledges. An utmost necessary reflection to have in the disciplines of architecture, planning and urbanism in the present conditions inequality and racial violence. The below series of seminars are part of the Urban and Regional Development PhD program but open to everyone who wish to attend and contribute previous registration and are set out to initiate a collective transdisciplinary reflection and suggest a research agenda for the future.
