Dialoghi Immunitari

Città, Territorio, Comunità.

Call for applications

As planners, architects, town planners and scholars of territorial issues we are called to reflect on the ways in which today's unusual, dramatic situation paves the way, and to some extent forces us to develop new design practices, new policies, and new ways of implementing research. The Dialoghi Immunitari project laid the cornerstone of this discussion during the three talks organised in June and July 2020. We would now like to broaden the discussion by initiating a new experimental phase in which dialogue and the involvement of students will be the key element on which to build a new, inclusive and joint proposal.

The second cycle of Dialoghi Immunitari envisages five thematic podcasts focusing on the issue:

How is the pandemic forcing us to rethink the urban question taking into consideration its economics, regulations and symbols?

The project intends to create a workgroup interested in the aforementioned issue; a group that questions the structure and need for this cycle of podcasts by identifying topics, proposing contents, and selecting individuals with different skills and expertise who should be involved in this dialogue.

This call is aimed at students enrolled in the Master's Degree courses in Architecture, Geography and Territorial, urban, environmental and landscape planning or in the Urban and Regional Development PhD courses. The course will recognize 3 training credits (CFU). To participate you must send your resume/CV and a motivation letter (max. 5,000 characters) to dialoghiimmunitari@gmail.com.

The deadline for application is December, 05.
