PhDs Behind the Scenes

Cities beyond growth: Scenarios of sustainability, wellbeing and justice

Welcome: Karl Krähmer Politecnico di Torino

Speakers: Anton Brokow-Loga Bauhaus-Universität Weimar

How can we think and build a city in which good life is possible without economic growth? Sustainability is one of the big contemporary challenges and cities play an important role in it. But is sustainability compatible with economic growth? Degrowth debates assert that it is not, as the decoupling between economic growth and ecological impacts remains a delusion in empirical research. But while in sustainable development scenarios cities often are celebrated as places of virtue, innovation and green economy, what is their role in a degrowth transformation?

Anton Brokow-Loga, co-editor of a German book on the post-growth city (2020), will discuss with us some of the proposals made in the emerging debate centred around the question of how we can think and build a city in which a
